

ARTICLE APPEARED
ON PAGE 6U. S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT
1 AUGUST 1977

Washington Whispers®

★ ★ ★

Despite Carter's insistence that Cuba withdraw troops from Africa as a condition for improving ties with the U.S., intelligence sources report that Castro has sent 5,000 more troops—for a total of 20,000—to Angola to support a Communist-backed Government that is having trouble quelling rebels.

★ ★ ★

One of the bitterest power struggles of the Administration pits Adm. Stansfield Turner, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, against Defense Secretary Harold Brown. At stake: control of secret agencies that run communications and satellite intelligence operations—now in Brown's hands, but coveted by Turner.

★ ★ ★

STAT